This information is from our formative assessments which 3,371 Youth Surveys and 38 Public School Host Surveys this last school year as of June 8, 2015.

Our next step in our strategic plan is to reach more youth in Jefferson County, Kentucky and in the Jefferson County Public Schools (JCPS) this up-coming 2015/2016 school year. JCPS schools open on Monday, August 3, 2015 and school starts for students on Wednesday, August 12, 2015.

See Addendum

E: Describe the program’s benefits to those being served (measurable outcomes). Include the programs process for collecting data and the indicators that will be tracked to measure the benefits to those being served:

YouthAlert! (YA!) goal is a ten percent reduction in all violence with youth who have gone through our program.

We measure with formative and summative assessments with the addition of school and public statistics. Over 94% of youth, 100% of educators, surveyed in a formative assessment after this program said it would help stop someone from doing violence.

YouthAlert! (YA!) Violence Prevention/Health Program follows a lesson plan that is aligned with the National Health Education Standards (NHES), which is followed by the Kentucky Core Academic Standards (June 2010). The progress is measured through schools Program Review Assessment as well as student health grades. It is also EILA approved by the State of Kentucky for Professional Development hours to educators. The program is also overseen by a very active YouthAlert! (YA!) Advisory Board.

YouthAlert! (YA!) Violence Prevention/Health Community Outreach Program matches the National PTA’s Resolution on Violence Prevention.

“Resolved, that the National PTA, through its constituent organizations, encourage the Department of Defense Education Activity, local school boards and other school governance bodies to incorporate a violence prevention component into existing courses of study that is age appropriate in a K-12 curriculum.”

YouthAlert! (YA!) Violence Prevention/Health Program mirrors the recommendations of both of the Louisville, Kentucky’s Violence Prevention Workgroup, the Lexington, Kentucky’s Commission for Youth Development and Public Safety and the State of Kentucky Department of Juvenile Justice’s Prevention Principles.

“The Violence Prevention Work Group's recommendations are Louisville schools to implement violence prevention programs for children in pre-kindergarten to grade 12, more diversity training for teachers and intervention programs for young people who commit their first crimes.” (Louisville, KY, October 2012)

“To plan for effective delinquency prevention and early intervention, the family, school and community as a whole must be involved in addressing the problems. DJJ's key principles for preventing and reducing juvenile delinquency are: To promote prevention strategies and programs.” (Kentucky Department of Juvenile Justice January 2013)

YouthAlert! (YA!) will be implementing an evidence-based study called “Blueprints for Violence Prevention developed by the Center for the Study and Prevention of Violence (CSPV) at the University of Colorado-Boulder and supported by the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, U.S. Department of Justice (USDOJ). This CSPV

Blueprint was recommended to us by the Centers for Diseases Control and Prevention (CDC) when meeting with them in Atlanta, Georgia. Our final goal is to be considered a “Model Program” by CSPV when the completed study is submitted to them. CSPV currently only has six programs that touch on the subject of violence that are considered “Model Programs”.

Violence Prevention Education works:

“Over the past few decades, social scientists have made great strides in uncovering the causes and correlates of youth violence. Numerous programs have demonstrated their effectiveness in reducing risk factors for serious violence. Our review of the scientific literature supports the main conclusion of this report: that as a Nation, we possess knowledge and have translated that knowledge into programs that are unequivocally effective in preventing much serious youth violence. (Office of the U.S. Surgeon General, 2001)

“Universal school-based programs to reduce or prevent violent behavior are delivered to all children in classrooms in a grade or in a school. Similarly, programs targeted to schools in high-risk areas are delivered to all children in a grade or school in those high-risk areas. During 2004--2006, the Task Force on Community Preventive Services conducted a systematic review of published scientific evidence concerning the effectiveness of these programs. The results of this review provide strong evidence that universal school-based programs decrease rates of violence and aggressive behavior among school-aged children. Program effects were demonstrated at all grade levels.” (National Center for Injury Prevention and Control, CDC, National Institute of Justice, NIJ, et al, 2007)

F: Briefly describe any existing collaborative relationships the organization has with other community organizations. Describe what those partners are brings got the relationship in general and to this program/project specifically.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued).
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

Special rules for partnerships. Partnerships that conduct a trade or business in the United States are generally required to pay a withholding tax on any foreign partners' share of income from such business. Further, in certain cases where a Form W-9 has not been received, a partnership is required to presume that a partner is a foreign person, and pay the withholding tax. Therefore, if you are a U.S. person that is a partner in a partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States, provide Form W-9 to the partnership to establish your U.S. status and avoid withholding on your share of partnership income.

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity.

YouthAlert! (YA!) Violence Prevention/Health Community Outreach Program's purpose is to reduce youth violence and improve the overall health of Kentucky youth. The program brings community speakers from the 35 hours of video from our six YouthAlert! (YA!) Violence Prevention Event & Forum to students. It also helps kids connect to local and national support and intervention services. The program continues out-of-school with our YouthAlert! (YA!) Model Youth Mentoring Initiative (MYMI). YouthAlert! its programming directly to over 3,000 youth in the last 12 months. Most of them in Jefferson County, Kentucky. Council members may designate to our organization where their funds should be used.

$125,000 Program Budget Breakdown for Louisville, Kentucky:

Reach 25,000 youth in Louisville, Kentucky with our class-size, multi-day, YouthAlert! (YA!) Violence Prevention/Health Community Program.

That would be approximately 100 multi-day, class-size, presentations during the course of 12 months in Louisville, Kentucky. Last school year YouthAlert! (YA!) did approximately 40 presentations during the school year.

These 100 multi-day, class-size, presentations would be to approximately 250 youth per presentation, which would be approximately 7 classes per day with 37 youth per class.

B: Describe specifically how the funding will be spent including identification of funding to sub grantee (s):

NDF would be used for direct programming to youth only. YouthAlert! (YA!) goal is a ten percent reduction in all violence with youth who have gone through our program.

We measure with formative and summative assessments with the addition of school and public statistics. Over 94% of youth, 100% of educators, surveyed in a formative assessment after this program said it would help stop someone from doing violence.

YouthAlert! (YA!) Violence Prevention/Health Program follows a lesson plan that is aligned with the National Health Education Standards (NHES), which is followed by the Kentucky Core Academic Standards (June 2010). The progress is measured through schools Program Review Assessment as well as student health grades. It is also EILA approved by the State of Kentucky for Professional Development hours to educators. The program is also overseen by a very active YouthAlert! (YA!) Advisory Board.

YouthAlert! (YA!) Violence Prevention/Health Community Outreach Program matches the National PTA's Resolution on Violence Prevention.

"Resolved, that the National PTA, through its constituent organizations, encourage the Department of Defense Education Activity, local school boards and other school governance bodies to incorporate a violence prevention component into existing courses of study that is age appropriate in a K-12 curriculum."

YouthAlert! (YA!) Violence Prevention/Health Program mirrors the recommendations of both of the Louisville, Kentucky's Violence Prevention Workgroup, the Lexington, Kentucky's Commission for Youth Development and Public Safety and the State of Kentucky Department of Juvenile Justice's Prevention Principles.

"The Violence Prevention Work Group's recommendations are Louisville schools to implement violence prevention programs for children in pre-kindergarten to grade 12, more diversity training for teachers and intervention programs for young people who commit their first crimes." (Louisville, KY, October 2012)

"To plan for effective delinquency prevention and early intervention, the family, school and community as a whole must be involved in addressing the problems. DJJ's key principles for preventing and reducing juvenile delinquency are: To promote prevention strategies and programs." (Kentucky Department of Juvenile Justice January 2013)

YouthAlert! (YA!) will be implementing an evidence-based study called "Blueprints for Violence Prevention developed by the Center for the Study and Prevention of Violence (CSPV) at the University of Colorado-Boulder and supported by the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, U.S. Department of Justice (USDOJ). This CSPV Blueprint was recommended to us by the Centers for Diseases Control and Prevention (CDC) when meeting with them in Atlanta, Georgia. Our final goal is to be considered a "Model Program" by CSPV when the completed study is submitted to them. CSPV currently only has six programs that touch on the subject of violence that are considered "Model Programs".

Violence Prevention Education works:

"Over the past few decades, social scientists have made great strides in uncovering the causes and correlates of youth violence. Numerous programs have demonstrated their effectiveness in reducing risk factors for serious violence. Our review of the scientific literature supports the main conclusion of this report: that as a Nation, we possess knowledge and have translated that knowledge into programs that are unequivocally effective in preventing much serious youth violence. (Office of the U.S. Surgeon General, 2001)

"Universal school-based programs to reduce or prevent violent behavior are delivered to all children in classrooms in a grade or in a school. Similarly, programs targeted to schools in high-risk areas are delivered to all children in a grade or school in those high-risk areas. During 2004--2006, the Task Force on Community Preventive Services conducted a systematic review of published scientific evidence concerning the effectiveness of these programs. The results of this review provide strong evidence that universal school-based programs decrease rates of violence and aggressive behavior among school-aged children. Program effects were demonstrated at all grade levels." (National Center for Injury Prevention and Control, CDC, National Institute of Justice, NIJ, et al, 2007)
