

To Whom It May Concern:

I just wanted to write in my support for Brian and Dana's Airbnb public hearing regarding Airbnb use in Old Louisville. During the summer of 2015 I combined families; sold my house near Bowman Field and began the search for a large house that could fit our family of 6 (kids 15/14/11/11). We wanted to be close to work and near the amenities we have grown to love about Downtown Louisville. We found a five bedroom, four bath home in Old Louisville that was just around the upper limits of our price range. It was formerly run as the Aleksander House Bed and Breakfast and the owner was selling and moving back to Connecticut. We immediately felt it was the ideal spot for our family and set out to meet as many people as we could in our new community. We truly want to become a part of an amazing group of people and have grown to know several of the home owners and business owners in our one year in the community. We want to see Old Louisville as a destination spot for anyone visiting our city. Airbnb is nothing but a positive for our neighborhood and will continue to draw business and tourism into an area that can showcase our beautiful city. We have had nothing but positive reviews from everyone that has come by our home and is amazed that we moved a large family downtown and not out to suburbia. Please help assist all of us in making airbnb a feasible opportunity for our families and for our community. Thank you.
