Experience

Mr. Trier manages JRA Architects' Louisville office, overseeing various aspects of programming, architectural design, construction documents and construction administration.

Over the years, his management skills have been utilized in various professional, religious and civic organizations, including roles on the Board of Directors at St. Xavier High School, Dressed in Love, and The Earth and Spirit Center. His Dale Carnegie training and other professional seminars in project management augment his extensive and varied management experience.

Mr. Trier has over 35 years of architectural experience. His strong commitment to programming and development of a workable conceptual solution provide a solid foundation for a successful project. These exciting projects succeed by providing creative solutions corresponding to the clients needs and goals. His commitment to an energy conscious and environmental friendly design is assisted by his knowledge of the LEED process as defined by USGBC.
