The Louisville Collegiate School Parking Lot and Demolition is a project that proposes to demolish 3 existing, 1960's apartment buildings that have become in a dire state of disrepair and unusable for habitation. As a result of the demolition and available land, the Louisville Collegiate School proposes to construct a 56 vehicle parking lot that will provide relief to the crowded traffic and parking conditions on Ray and Glenmary Avenue. The existing ingress/egress from Grinstead into the Yorktown Apartments will not be modified for access into – out of the new parking lot. In addition, consideration for construction of a private access drive that connects Glenmary and Grinstead (through the proposed parking lot) is to be considered as a future phase of development pursuant to the apartment demolition and parking lot construction. The future connector driveway may also include a student drop-off away from Glenmary, providing additional traffic relief to the neighborhood.

In conjunction with the apartment demolition, the Louisville Collegiate School is proactively engaged with Yorktown Apartment property management company to aid in locating housing for tenants that currently occupy some of the units in the Yorktown Apartments.
