Re: LDC_Chapter6_App_Rev

Planning and Design Services staff brought forward changes to the Land Development Code appendices, 6A (Access Management Design Manual) and 6C (Jefferson County Addressing Manual). The proposed changes were reviewed by the Planning Committee on November 20, 2018. The Planning Committee by consensus forwarded the changes to the Planning Commission for consideration.

The changes proposed for Appendix 6A (Access Management Design Manual) integrate the access management policy approved as part of the Dixie Highway Access Management Strategy. This policy is specific to Dixie Highway and several intersections between Greenwood Road and Crums Lane.

The changes proposed for Appendix 6C (Jefferson County Addressing Design Manual) provide a requirement and standards for addressing of cemeteries within Jefferson County. Specifically, this amendment would provide the ability to address inactive cemeteries within Jefferson County and would assist in identifying these historic resources within the community and for the implementation of LDC section 4.4.6.

The Planning Commission has final approval authority over changes to these appendices since these policy documents were originally approved by the Planning Commission and do not require legislative body action which is required for changes to the zoning regulations.
