Special Discussion

Streetlights and the Louisville Gas and Electric LED Conversion Project, Jeff Brown, Public Works

The following spoke to this item:

- Jeff Brown, Public Works
- Chair George
- Zachary Tyler, Develop Louisville
- Committee Member Hollander
- Dirk Gowin, Public Works

The following was discussed:

- There are 18,600 lights that Public Works wants converted into Light-emitting diode (LED) lights by Louisville Gas and Electric Company ("LG&E") over a span of the next 5 years
- Metro Government will be paying LG&E a monthly conversion fee for every light they replace
- Public Works is working with LG&E to see how many lights they can replace in a year, where the priority locations are and what type of fixture would be used to replace the outdated fixtures that are in place now
- Once the conversion is completed 65% of the energy that is currently being used for city lighting will be saved
- Question and concerns about how decisions will be made regarding the conversion and 5-year goal
- Question about whether LG&E will have a detailed plan by the end of the month
- Question about whether interstate lights will be converted
- Currently 95% of the street lights are in the wrong locations
- Public Works is looking for the Metro Council to support a strategy around the lighting assessment that looks to prioritize areas with high crash volume and high crime areas
- Question about whether LG&E is currently replacing bulbs that are out, or replacing fixtures
