Report from Jefferson Animal Hospital:

Date: 02/03/13

Doctor: Dr. Cheever

Presenting Signs: HBC limping right front leg ok to x-ray then call Janet.

Exam: BAR-mm pink. Normal mentation.
Normal sinus rhythm - Clear lungs/panting.
Good body condition score and normal hydration.
Normal abdominal palpation, mild nipple development.
LN's WNL.

Non-weight bearing lameness R FL, knuckling foot. Dropped carriage of leg at the shoulder. Mild abrasion injury lateral aspect of elbow. Mild bruising noted R axillary region. No pain with palpation of limb. No crepitus or obvious fx.

Diagnostics: X-ray: AP distal FL's, R lat R FL - No obvious fx or luxations. Increased opacity mid R radius, possible nutrient foramen vs healed fx. No shoulder views.

Diagnosis: R FL lameness, neuro deficits, R/O brachial plexus avulsion, traumatic IVDD, open.

Recommendations/Plan: LMM w/Janet: relayed no fxs, susp neuropathy likely secondary to brachial plexus avulsion. Possible old injury, mid R radius, ie healing hairline fx vs normal anatomy. Rec cage confinement and observation. May require amputation if permanent deficits especially if self traumatizing from trying to walk on foot incorrectly.

This dog went to Jefferson yesterday for a possible broken leg and the person that found her filled out an adoption app. And you have a memo about the app. I just wanted to let you know that the dog does not have a simple broken leg, but has nerve damage from an old injury. Jefferson recommends amputation in the future. This may be something they won't be able to afford.
